2018-03-08 | press release | USA | ethanol

Ethanol margins are driving ethanol production growth in the US

Estimated ethanol production margins at U.S. corn ethanol plants averaged 22 cents per gallon in 2017. Last year was the fifth consecutive year that margins have averaged more than 20 cents/gal, which has helped drive consistent ethanol production growth over that period.

Source: eia (U.S. Energy Information Administration)
Read more: https://www.eia.gov/todayinenergy/detail.php?id=35212&src=email

Not for commercial use.